

Byung Geon (“B.K.”) Lee

Byung Geon Lee, (“BK Lee”) is an official with the Korean Fair Trade Commission. BK presently is a Fellow with the American Antitrust Institute. From 2007-2008 he was sponsored by the US State Department and the Korean Government for a fellowship at our very own Hubert H. Humphrey Institute focusing on antitrust enforcement in intellectual property rights. Prior to his fellowships in the United States, Mr. Lee was Deputy Director, Deregulation and Legal Affairs Team at the KFTC where he helped reform the government’s anti-competition regulations. He also served as a delegate member of the OECD Competition Committee. Mr. Lee received his BA in Business and Administration from Yonsei University in Seoul and his MA in Public Administration from Seoul National University. Mr. Lee can be reached at Byungkun1@gmail.com.

Junko Shibata

Junko Shibata is a professor of law at the Kagawa University Graduate School of Law in Kagawa, Japan. Professor Shibata is here with the help and support of the Japan Fair Trade Commission, for which we are grateful. Professor Shibata received her bachelor’s degree in law in 1990 from Sophia University and then attended Sophia University’s Graduate School of Law until 1997 obtaining her graduate degrees in economic law. She now teaches at Kagawa University Graduate School of Law and has written extensively on Intellectual Property and Competition Law and the Abuse of Dominant Position. Professor Shibata can be reached at jsibata@aol.com.

John V. Grobowski

John V. Grobowski is the managing partner of the Faegre & Benson LLP Shanghai office and co-chair of the firm’s China practice. Prior to becoming a lawyer, John was one of the first Americans to study in China as a visiting scholar in the Archaeology Program at Peking University in 1979-1980 and was a university lecturer and consultant in the China field. He has lived and worked in China more than two decades. His primary areas of practice are China-related corporate and commercial transactions, antitrust and international trade. Among other honors, he was named as one of the leading mergers and acquisitions lawyers in China in 2005 by Asialaw. He can be reached at JGrobowski@faegre.com.